

NEWSbeat

 A rosehip herbal remedy could ease the pain of rheumatoid arthritis, according to researchers at the Charité University Medical Centre in Berlin. Scientists want to do more tests to see if rosehips could be the basis for a new drug.